

The Drexel LeBow JD/MBA

A dual degree designed for attorneys.

Drexel University's Thomas R. Kline School of Law and Bennett S. LeBow College of Business offer a dual degree that helps attorneys understand fundamental issues in business and finance. The JD/MBA dual degree provides the business skills which can lead to careers in the fields of securities, corporate litigation, global trade/international business and entrepreneurial ventures.

Features

The MBA is a comprehensive business degree with strong experiential learning components and a strong innovational spirit built into every class, from the foundation to the electives.

- Law students are integrated into the full-time MBA program and are enrolled in both Kline School and LeBow College.
- The program starts in September, includes a week of orientation and ends in June of the following year.
- Students in the JD/MBA program complete 45 credits towards their MBA, sharing 6 credits with the Law School for a total of 51 credits.
- LeBow provides career counseling and workshops and recruiting events.
- There are opportunities to take part in consulting projects, possibly for organizations in the legal industry.
- Merit scholarships are available.

To Apply

To be considered for the JD/MBA, students must:

- Complete their first year of law school with a minimum cumulative GPA of 2.50
- Receive the endorsement of the law school.
- Submit a GMAT or GRE score as part of the MBA Admissions process.

Office of Graduate Admissions MBA@DREXEL.EDU or 215.895.6804