

SPORT BUSINESS

The demands of the ever evolving and increasingly sophisticated multi-billion dollar global sport industry call for professionals who have strong academic business credentials paired with strategic work experiences in sport organizations. The program teaches students the fundamentals of business - economics, marketing, media, management, ethics, finance, law and technology - through the lens of sport. Elective credits allow students to explore more specific areas of interest or pursue a minor in the areas that advance your goals.

LOCATION

We teach the business of sport in the center of Philadelphia, one of the most passionate sports cities in America. Our central location between Boston and Washington D.C. enables easy access to hundreds of professional sports teams, intercollegiate sports programs, sport marketing, media, law, and event management firms.

CO-OP

Through the Drexel Co-op Program, you'll find a wide array of choices to work with professional sport teams; sport governing bodies; college sport programs; foundations, halls of fame, and conferences; media organizations; sport marketing firms; and sport arenas and venues. Co-op experiences are available locally, nationally or internationally with a variety of organizations.

With the support and guidance of a diverse and experienced faculty, students can explore all facets of the industry and build an extensive resume while they study, and get more than a foot in the door to this exclusive industry before graduation.

DREXEL STUDENTS ON CO-OP EXPERIENCES

“

While on co-op, I was able to work in many different locations and work environments. Being in contact with several people in the industry has really given me a strong base, where I can grow as a person, a worker, and now a colleague. My co-op experience has allowed me to really create my personal network for the future.

EMPLOYERS ON DREXEL STUDENTS

“

Dylan is easily one of the hardest working co-ops who I have ever had the pleasure of working with. He is extremely respectful, reliable, efficient, and organized — everyone trusted him with projects to get them done and do them well.
