

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
LeBow
College of Business

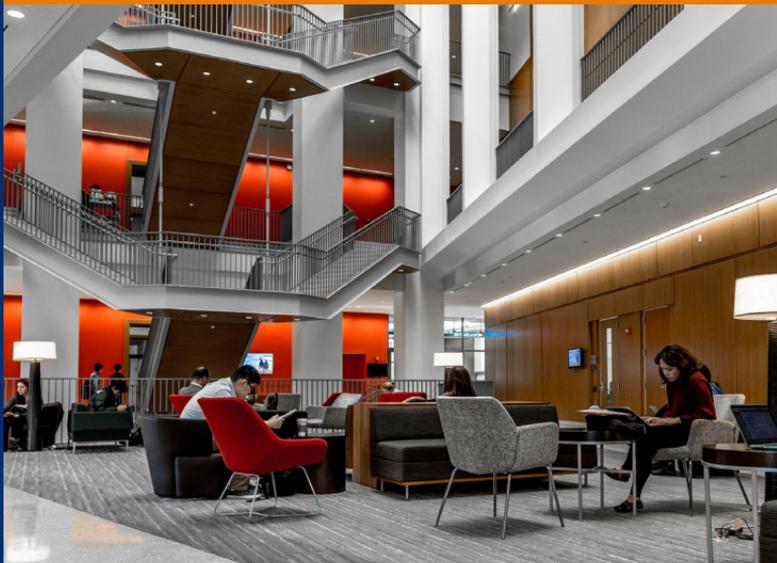

DEAN'S PRIORITIES:
Immediate Impact on Student Success

LeBow's immersive approach to business education is essential, as innovations transform business and society at an unprecedented pace and as all companies, old and new, are being forced to rethink how they create value. Your support fuels our future agility, impact and success.

Accelerate Strategic Growth

Providing unrestricted support to the LeBow College of Business gives us the flexibility and discretion to quickly adapt to unanticipated needs that advance the College. Discretionary funding can support student scholarships and co-op stipends; expand our research agenda by providing seed grants to launch new investigations; and jump-start new programs to immerse students in networking opportunities such as on-campus visits from industry leaders. Continual changes in programming grow LeBow's distinctiveness.

Scale New Heights in Research & Innovation

Our faculty's expertise in high-impact, translational research combined with a curricular focus on rigorous business problem-solving techniques enables our students to understand and address the complex problems that industry faces. Your support for LeBow's Research & Innovation Fund promotes student success by enabling the College to further align with industry partners to provide in-class experiential learning opportunities for students, integrate faculty research into the curriculum, develop new courses and certificates, and update technology to enhance the overall student experience.

Promote Access, Equity & Inclusion

To develop the next generation of culturally competent, globally minded and innovative leaders in business and society, LeBow is deeply committed to increasing diversity, equity and inclusion. LeBow's Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Fund supports scholarships for underrepresented students and funds opportunities for students and faculty to host events, create programming and perform research around DE&I initiatives both within Drexel and in surrounding communities.

Fuel Student Progress

LeBow's Operation Graduation Fund assists students with unforeseen financial hardships that may be preventing them from graduating from Drexel — a reduction in their family's income, for example, or an illness or death in their family. Scholarships support third-, fourth- and fifth-year students, providing them the opportunity to cross the finish line to graduation and impacting future success in their professions. For capable students who have exhausted all other financial resources, Operation Graduation makes a LeBow degree possible.

Expand Co-op Opportunities

Immersive cooperative education is a distinctive hallmark of a Drexel education. LeBow's Co-op Opportunity Fund provides financial support to students pursuing unpaid or underpaid co-op opportunities. Often a student might find a co-op position that they are well suited for, but they do not have the means to pursue. For example, a job that interests the student may be located within the US outside of Philadelphia, or globally, but the location provides a barrier to the student accepting the position. In these instances, donor-supported funds provide students the opportunity to take those positions and get valuable experiences they might have otherwise missed.

Invest today in tomorrow's business leaders and visionaries.
