

8th Annual Sovereign Debt Restructuring Conference

February 20, 2025
Philadelphia, PA

When

Thursday,
February 20, 2025
9 am - 1 pm

Where

Drexel University's LeBow College
of Business

Gerri C. LeBow Hall
3220 Market Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104

Additional Details,
Speaker List, and
Official Registration

CLICK HERE

We look forward to your participation in this timely and important discussion.

Sovereign Debt in Crisis: Risks, Restructurings, and the Path Forward

The global sovereign debt landscape is facing unprecedented challenges. With debt levels soaring and country-specific financial distress reaching critical highs, the progress of Sovereign Debt Restructurings (SoDRs) remains slow and complex. Rising fiscal and monetary pressures, geopolitical uncertainty, and climate-related financial risks further complicate efforts to achieve sustainable debt solutions.

As governments, international financial institutions, and market participants navigate these uncertainties, key questions remain: What are the most pressing risks in the current debt environment? How can restructuring processes be improved to enhance debt sustainability? What lessons can be learned from recent sovereign debt crises?

This conference will bring together leading experts, policymakers, and market analysts to discuss the evolving debt crisis, explore strategies for strengthening debt resilience, and assess emerging trends shaping the future of sovereign debt management.

SESSIONS INCLUDE

- Sovereign Debt on the Global Stage: Developments, Distress Dynamics, and Resolution Pathways
- Recent SoDR Developments: Indicators of Hope or Concern? Country and CRA Perspectives on Future Debt Sustainability
- Potential Risks and Strengthening Factors for the Sovereign Debt Outlook: A Market Perspective
- Strategies for Strengthening Sovereign Debt Resilience and Sovereign Debt Restructuring Efficiency

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
LeBow
College of Business

Global
Interdependence
Center