Drexel LeBow's Bachelor of Science in Health Services Administration prepares students to address the business challenges of a complex and changing health care industry. Our graduates are equipped for entry-level staff or leadership positions where they participate in designing and managing critical systems for delivering high-quality health services to diverse populations.

DEGREE OPTIONS

- BS in Health Services Administration
- BS in Health Services Administration/Master of Health Administration
- BS in Health Services Administration/Master of Public Health (MPH)

COURSEWORK

In addition to foundational courses in business, computing, English, mathematics, natural sciences and more, the BS in Health Services Administration requires core courses such as:

- Introduction to Health Systems Administration
- Health Care Law
- Financial Management in Health Care
- Nonprofits and Health Care
- Health Care Marketing
- Management of Health Services
- Leadership in Health Services Administration
- Ethics in Health Care Management

CAREER OUTLOOK

Opportunities for graduates with a health services administration degree are increasing at a higher rate than average for all occupations, and the typical entry-level education required is a bachelor's degree (U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics). Graduates with a background in health services administration are prepared for a wide range of entry-level positions in areas such as health care leadership and management, health care consulting, health policy analytics, pharmaceutical sales and more.
