Management Information Systems at Drexel University

TOP CO-OP EMPLOYERS

Accenture
Bloomberg
Comcast
Duane Morris
Johnson & Johnson
SAP

MEDIAN CO-OP HOURLY PAY

$24

Median co-op hourly pay for MIS majors

AVERAGE STARTING SALARY

$72,563

Average starting salary for MIS majors, class of 2025

Discover how information systems enable business operations and support complex decision-making in Drexel LeBow's BSBA in Management Information Systems (MIS). Through academic rigor and hands-on learning, you'll develop technical skills in systems analysis and database design, and you'll select from elective options in key topics such as MIS security, enterprise cloud systems and AI-driven automation. You'll also learn the ethical principles and governance practices needed to deploy technology responsibly.

Degree Options

- BS in Business Administration — Major in Management Information Systems
- BS in Business Administration/MBA
- Minor in Management Information Systems

Coursework Examples

- Systems Analysis and Design
- Data and Database Management
- Management Information Systems Strategy
- Management Information Systems Security
- Project Management for Information Systems
- Enterprise Cloud Systems Management
- Enterprise AI and Automation

Career Outlook

A business degree with a major in management information systems combines business insight with technical expertise, so you're prepared to help organizations use technology more effectively. You'll graduate with the skills to analyze business needs, implement technology solutions and lead projects that improve operations, support decision-making and drive innovation. Pursue careers in a variety of technology-focused and business-facing roles, including systems analyst, cloud administrator, AI transformation lead and more.

Learn more about this program by scanning the QR code or visiting lebow.drexel.edu/academics/undergraduate

Version no. 261026-01

LEBOW.DREXEL.EDU

Caitlin Brady, Director, Undergraduate Programs & Recruitment
215.571.3570 | cem398@drexel.edu

DREXEL UNIVERSITY
LeBow
College of Business